

WHAT DOES FIELD-PROVEN MEAN?

In Airship product information and sales materials, you'll often see the phrase, "field-proven." We use this phrase to describe Airship's solid history of successful performance.

Since 2003, the team behind Airship DVRs has deployed systems in numerous, mission-critical and demanding environments such as museums, banks, casinos, and shopping malls.

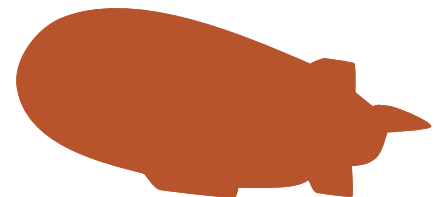

Through industry partnerships with OEMs, these components have protected many, many people and sensitive assets internationally.

With that history of reliability behind our products, we know they have passed the most stringent performance tests.

The idea with Airship is to bring enterprise-class solutions to two important and expanding markets:

- Replacements and/or upgrades for failing and outdated existing systems.
- Smaller and more cost-conscious commercial customers who require quality video surveillance.

Why should people settle when they don't have to? Airship makes the latest and best technology affordable and easy to install and use.
